The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the train was the heat. It was a relief, but also a bit of a shock. The air was thick and sticky, and the sun was beating down on my face. I had heard that the weather was bad, but I didn't realize how bad it would be.
 I had to wear a hat and sunglasses to protect myself. The people here were used to the heat, but I was not.
 I had to drink a lot of water to stay hydrated. The food was also very spicy, which was a bit of a surprise.
 I had heard that the food was good, but I didn't realize how spicy it would be.
 I had to eat a lot of cooling foods like mango and watermelon to feel better.
 The people here were very friendly, but they were also very hot. I had to be careful not to get too close to them.
 I had to wear long sleeves and pants to protect myself from the sun. The heat was a real challenge, but I managed to survive. I was lucky to have a good guide who knew the best places to go and the best times to visit. I was glad to be here, even if it was a bit hot.
